Improved community health outcomes

Our state-of-the-art technology enables collaboration across the care continuum, drawing attention to important healthcare priorities like health equity, hospital readmission reduction, maternal and child health outcomes, substance use disorder, behavioral health, and workplace violence.

Identification of public health risks

Our solutions can help states reduce community spread of infectious disease by identifying emerging threats in real-time and alerting care providers to patient infections.

Emergency preparedness

Our solutions help streamline public health and emergency management capabilities to solve critical gaps in patient care during public health emergencies and disasters.

Strategic Medicaid management consulting

Many states can benefit from our consulting services, which align business and technology needs with state-specific requirements to meet programmatic Medicaid goals.

As part of our government program's value-based payment program, we make sure patients are getting quality care by closing as many care gaps as possible and taking care of their needs. We're decreasing costs by reducing unnecessary admissions – especially for those with chronic illnesses. So, we're spending less by taking better care of these patients.
